

UNIMORE AMULA

AMULA Associazione Mutualistica Universitaria Lavoratori Atipici (University Association for Health Insurance of Atypical Workers)

This association, AMULA, was created by a group of atypical workers of the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia (post-graduate students, scholarship holders, post-doctoral researchers); it is supported financially by the University and it reaches its aims through the work of a group of researchers and scholarship holders of the University and of the trade union of the University staff.

Aims of the Association

AMULA bestows financial contributions in cases of pregnancy or chronic illness, for medical examinations of any field or kind, for diagnostic tests, for the acquisition of eyesight lenses or orthopedic aids, and it does this through the SMA (Society of Mutual Assistance), Modena.

Who may benefit

These financial contributions may be applied for by those workers who have an atypical or indirect relationship with the University, or else with Spin-Off or Start-Up organisations connected to the University, or else with the Marco Biagi Foundation, or else with MORE Service Ltd., provided that such workers are not employees of the State or of private employers.

To become a member of AMULA and to benefit from the financial contributions listed below, it is necessary to enrol in AMULA, by filling in the enrolment form and paying the annual enrolment fee (1 January – 31 December) of 50 euros, and it is also necessary to enrol in the SMA, this being the body for which AMULA arranges health insurance.

You can find all necessary information and enrolment documents at the following link:

Financial Contributions

AMULA's financial contributions are as follows:

- 200 euros a year for medical examinations and other healthcare services;
- from 500 to 2,400 euros a year for pregnancy allowances (depending on the contract which the member has made with the University and also on the level of pregnancy risk);
- 25 euros as a daily allowance in cases of chronic illness, beside the legal contributions and services granted by the SMA,
